

MEDIA ADVISORY

Chicago Bulls All-Star Joakim Noah to join Home for Good Advocates at Rally for Legislation to Increase Housing and Support for People Returning from Prison

CHICAGO — The Home for Good Coalition will host a rally day at the National Public Housing Museum on Thursday to increase awareness of legislation that would create safer, stronger communities across Illinois by improving housing and support services for people returning from prison. Activities will include a fireside chat led by Ahmadou Dramé, director of the Illinois Justice Project, with Joakim Noah, former Chicago Bulls All-Star and co-founder of the Noah's Arc Foundation, and Andre Ruddock, founder of Returning Citizens in Memory of Henry Dee and outreach coordinator for the Chicago Area Fair Housing Alliance.

WHO:

Ahmadou Dramé, Director for Illinois Justice Project

Joakim Noah, former Chicago Bulls All-Star and co-founder of Noah's Arc Foundation Sen.

Lakesia Collins, D-Chicago

Andre Ruddock, Outreach Coordinator at the Chicago Area Fair Housing Alliance and Founder of Returning Citizens in Memory of Henry Dee

Javier Reyes, co-founder of Challenge II Change

WHERE:

National Public Housing Museum
919 S. Ada St.
Chicago, IL 60607

WHEN:

Thursday, March 19, 2026
9:45 a.m.

About the Home for Good Coalition

The Home for Good Coalition includes more than 60 groups across Illinois, including reentry, affordable housing and community organizations advocating for the expansion of housing and support services for people returning from prison. The coalition aims to create safer and stronger communities through sustainable, coordinated support efforts that reduce homelessness, create opportunity for people returning home and save taxpayer dollars. For more information, please visit <https://homeforgoodillinois.com/>.